GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN...

SAM KINISON

by Chauncé Hayden

This past week Sam Kinison was killed while on his way to a performance at a west coast resort hotel when a 17 year old driver of a pick-up truck crossed into the oncoming lane hitting the comic's vehicle head-on, killing Sam and badly injuring Malika, Sam's long-time girlfriend and bride of just one week.

The first time I met Sam was in December of 1990. Performing at the Comedy Loft in Nanuet, New York, a grossly overweight Kinison appeared dangerously out of control. Similar to an old west bandit, the term Outlaw would become the renegade comic's trademark; the same trademark the press would feed upon throughout his turbulent career.

After the show had ended, Kinison, entourage in tow, barreled through the lobby like a steamroller. Seizing the moment, I desperately attempted to remind Kinison of our interview appointment, arranged early that day by an emotionally drained publicist. Holding true to his outlaw reputation, Kinison, without breaking stride, glanced at me through the corners of his scowling eyes and said, "It ain't gonna happen," thus sparking from my pen a scornful review of the night's performance that would months later lead to a violent confrontation between Kinison and myself. The following morning the incident would appear on Page 6 of the New York Post.

Sadly, however, apologies and bygones will never be. Ironically, it would not be Kinison's reckless behavior that would do him in, but rather the reckless behavior of a 17 year old drunk driver. Certainly not the way Sam, who relished the limelight, would have wanted it to end.

Over the next few weeks there will be those who muse a moral to this terribly sad story, but at this moment I can think of none, except for the fact that a very funny and talented man is gone. I can't help but imagine at this moment Sam looking down on us (or up), and with that famed Kinison screech declaring, "See, I told you the drugs and booze wouldn't kill me, but NO! you wouldn't listen! Oh Ohhh OHHHHHHH!"

Remember the words to the song, "If there's a rock 'n roll heaven, then you know they've got a hell of a band." Well, I hope God's got a sense of humor because tonight he's got one hell of a comic. Sam Kinison will be sorely missed.

A year ago Sam and I laid down our weapons long enough to talk about his friends, Howard Stern and Jessica Hahn, and his adversaries Dice Clay and Elton John. The following is that last interview.

CHAUNCE HAYDEN: How's life treating you these days, Sam?

SAM KINISON: Well, '91 is starting out pretty good if you don't count the World War and the fact that Rap Music is at an all time high, it's O.K.

SO: So, I take it, you're against the war and Rap Music.

SK: Well, no. I was actually for the war. I was glad we won it, I'm glad the guys are coming back and I'm glad we at least made an example in that part of the country. God, they've given us enough shit over the last 10 years.

SO: Weren't you planning on going to the Middle East to entertain the troops?

SK: I was, yeah. I had offered my services. I also have a Naval Air fighting battalion for which I'm their Mascot, The Fighting 143rd out of Norfolk, Virginia. But now there's no reason to go over there.

SO: You're playing much smaller venues than in the past. Is it because you're trying out new material?

SK: Actually, I am trying out new material. I just did a new HBO special called "The Sam Kinison Family Entertainment Hour." I shot it in October and it will air in May on HBO. The act I've been doing for the last year and a half is on it, and now I've been coming up with a whole new act. I already have 30 minutes of it written now. That's why I'm in the smaller clubs, so I can work it out and get it right and then make another album.

SO: Will you be singing on stage this time out?

SK: No, just comedy, stand-up.

SO: Sam, do you feel any pressure from other comedians, namely Andrew Dice Clay?

SK: No, no. There have always been other comedians and there always will be other comedians. So I never let them influence me.

SO: What if you were trapped in an elevator with Dice Clay. What would you talk about?

For Advertising Information Call 201-358-2929

SK: Well, I don't know. You see, I have a theory about Dice. I feel like Dr. Frankenstein felt when he saw the monster throw the little girl in the lake, you know what I mean. I basically created him. I made it possible for him to be him. I'm not sure if I'm happy or unhappy about that.

SO: The media portrays you as a wild man who lives life on the edge. How much of what's written is true?

SK: Well the press does exaggerate stuff. I'm not a bookworm but I'm also not living every night in a bar with strippers and dealers. I just do my thing, do what I have to do, and get it done. Maybe to some people's lifestyle… It would probably freak out guys that vacation one weekend a year.

SO: Has your lifestyle slowed down with age?

SK: My life has become more responsible because there's more things to be responsible for. Five years ago I didn't have to be responsible. Now I got two homes, I got a lawyer, a manager, a business manager, an agent… So there's all kinds of responsibilities that go with that, and that makes you a little more career oriented. That's good because it makes you produce work, and you see all the work you have around you. I've done four HBO specials, I've done three albums, I've got two videos out, so when you see your work start to pile up, it makes you feel good.

SO: Singer Elton John blasted you on national TV last year in front of a live audience. What was your first reaction?

SK: I thought he was drunk and I also had no idea he was upset with me. But again, what are you gonna do. He's not my favorite musician and I'm sure I'm not his favorite comic. I don't think he's very aware of my stuff or that he's in touch with my act or my point of view at all. He's just reacting to what other people have told him about me.

SO: Jessica Hahn and yourself, at one point, were reported to be a little more than friends. How's your relationship with Jessica today?

SK: I'm not mad at her. I hope she's not mad at me. I never see her. We never talk. You know, I've got a relationship and she's got a career so… unfortunately, we got too close to be friends. It became obvious we just couldn't hang out and be friends. But that happens once in a while.

KINISON: tough brother

SAM Kinison's act depends on the First Amendment, but that doesn't mean his brother believes in freedom of speech. Chaunce Hayden, a writer for the New Jersey-based Steppin' Out magazine, filed a police report after Kinison's brother Bill allegedly threatened him backstage at Sam's show in West Orange Monday. Hayden says he went backstage to photograph the comic when Bill remembered Hayden and an unfavorable review he'd written about a previous show. While a large bodyguard stood menacingly behind Hayden, Bill hissed that if the critic wrote another negative review: "I have people that will take care of you and that is no idle threat." Said Hayden: "It was like the comedy Mafia." Neither Kinison could be reached for comment.

SO: Sam, you're heard quite often on The Howard Stern Show. How do you and Howard get along off the air?

SK: Pretty good. I've been to his house, he's been to mine. He's come to my shows and introduced me. I've done everything he's wanted me to do. I've been on his home videos that he puts out. I was on his TV show when it first came out, just to help him get it started. I'm a big fan of his and I imagine he's a big fan of mine. He asks me on K-Rock every time I'm in town. I think he's the best at what he does, so it's always a challenge to go in and do the show with him. You really have to work mentally to keep up with him.

SO: You've had some heated moments on the Stern show. Are they for real or is it staged?

SK: No, that's all of whatever it was. We just went in and did it. Plus, I think if you ever tried to rig anything on Howard, it wouldn't work anyway. He'd make fun of you for trying to rig something.

SO: Your life has taken some tragic turns over the years and Howard Stern always seems to find humor in your misfortune. Do you ever think he goes too far?

SK: Yeah, I think he goes too far but that's his job. He'll tell you that he goes too far too. But, yeah, he goes farther than I would with things. But that's what he does. You have to accept that if you're going to be a Howard fan.

SO: New York disc jockey Meg Griffin has made it no secret on the air regarding her feelings toward you and your brand of humor.

SK: I think she was in the wrong time slot, that was the whole thing. I don't think she really hated me. I think she hated getting up in the morning and have to come in and follow Howard, which is impossible to do, especially for her. So I think she was really upset that me and It's tax time, Springtime, Earth Day '92, (April 9th) and the right time to fall in love. Flowers are blooming and in the air is that lovely, pleasant feeling that things are really not that bad.

New Yorkers are getting ready for Cher, who will be performing at the Paramount at Madison Squaare Garden for five shows, May 27th through the 31st, (201) 507-8900. The 1992-93 season at Carnegie Hall has just been published and its simply wonderful array of musical entertainment can be yours by subscription. Phone (212) 247-7800 for further information. And too, the summer to Music at Tanglewood '92 has dozens of marvelous performances by such stars as the Boston Pops, Ray Charles, Mel Torme and more. Call 1-800-347-7171 to request the schedule.

The Royal National Theatre of Great Britain will be performing Shakespeare's "Richard III" June 9th through the 21st, (212) 307-4100. The Mark Morris Dance Group performs the 16th, 17th and 18th at the Manhattan Center Grand Ballroom, 311 West 34th Street. All tickets at $30. Phone (212) 307-4100. "The Velveteen Rabbit" is a dance, song and narration combination now at the Joyce Theatre. Kids are $15 a ticket and adults $20 a seat. Call JoyceCharge at (212) 242-0800. The New York City Ballet Company is presenting "The Sleeping Beauty" for 23 performances only from April 22nd through May 10th, (212) 870-5570. The Metropolitan Opera is presenting "Billy Budd" the 15th and the 18th, (212) 362-6000. Enjoy "Shmulnik's Waltz" success story over at the Village Gate, (212) 307-4100. The American Ballet Theaare at the Met (April 20th through June 20th) is presenting such delights as "Peter And The Wolf," "Giselle," "Romeo And Juliet," "The Firebird," and many more, (212) 362-6000. The Radio City Easter Show starring The Rockettes is a springtime celebration, (201) 507-8900. By the way, "Yanni in Concert" is at Radio City Music Hall on the First of May and Ella Fitzgerald on the Second.

Stringfellows presents "Pure Platinum," 35 East 21st Street daily 4 p.m. to 4 a.m. Entertainment, socializing and delicious food, including a FREE businessperson's buffet is offered every day between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. (212) 254-2444. WHO BROUGHT THE DOG

By Tami Morgan

Recently I had the pleasure of seeing a great local rock cover band for the first time. They're kind of new on the scene, but they've grown a strong following. Their influences range from The Beatles to Extreme, and during one of their three set performances, they'll play songs ranging from The Georgia Satellites to ACDC and a little of everything in between.

The band members consist of Rob Monte on lead vocals, Joe Bar-Nadov on keyboards and acoustic guitar, Clete Ritta, guitars and backing vocals, George Gardony, bass guitar and backing vocals and Steve Romano on drums and backing vocals. Who Brought The Dog has been together since September of 1991, and some of the clubs they've performed at include The Ruins Cafe in Lodi, Wild Mike's, Lodi, Chester Drawers in Ridgewood, Murphy's Law in Bergenfield, and Walley's in Bergenfield. The band plays two to four times per week.

They got their name while they were in a club during one of their first shows. Someone in the crowd yelled out, "Hey, who brought the dog?" The name, and the ugly/cute dog logo stuck.

Even though Who Brought The Dog has only been together for several months, they've built up a large following of over three hundred people who are now on the band's current mailing list. The band members have been in other bands on the club circuit for a number of years and have built a kind of philosophy that, as Rob Monte, lead vocalist put it, "We hated seeing people with their arms crossed just waiting to see the band. We want people to have fun."

I watched the band spend all of their time in between sets running around greeting the regulars of their shows and meeting people who had come to see them for the first time. They have a very open, friendly, down to earth attitude, don't take themselves that seriously and don't appreciate the all too stereotypical rock star attitude that runs amok on the club scene.

I ended up sitting at a table in front of the band with a whole group of people who had become regulars to Who Brought The Dog Shows.

"They're really good," one girl told me. "I know you're going to like them. They go out of their way to make sure everyone is having fun."

They sure did! By around 10:30 p.m. the club was packed. Various members of the band casually ambled up to the stage to tune up for a few moments before the lights went down. Suddenly they broke into "Saturday Night by Elton John.

Rob Monte had to be running on Energizer batteries because a few seconds later he was running all over the room, wireless microphone in hand. Rob looked a little like Nuno Bettencourt from Extreme with long, straight, dark hair, and a 60's style paisley shirt unbuttoned almost all the way down.

Throughout the first set and most of the night I watched Rob leap up on barstools next to unsuspecting bar patrons and jump on tables to sing to people. Not just the same people, either. Different people, and he kept running to a million different places in the bar.

A few minutes later still singing a Whitesnake song, he proceeded to do a split. Yes, a split. I was impressed, then he told a dirty joke in between sets. OK, so it took me a couple of days to get it, but when I did I thought it was cute.

By the second set everybody started to loosen up, dance, get rowdy and act like we were all friends at a party and not people hanging out at a club.

There's a dead rubber chicken hanging from Steve's drum set. Fran, the band's manager, tells me that it was given to him as a gift and that he was so attached to it that he couldn't play without it, so it found a home.

About four people are celebrating a birthday at the club that night, so Rob brings out a small cake, complete with candles and the band and crowd sings happy birthday to them. They slice up the cake and offer it to the crowd.

By the third set it's around 2:00 a.m. and everybody's on the dance floor. Not only are they on the dance floor, but since by now the band's voices are getting kind of hoarse, about fifty people are helping them sing their songs. At one point, there were ten women up on stage with the band (okay I'll admit it, I was one of them) singing "Honky Tonk Woman" on the top of our lungs.

I think this was the first club band I've seen that, at 3:00 a.m. actually had a huge crowd still yelling for more. I asked a couple of the audience members why they liked the band as much as they did.

"They make you feel like you're a part of it, and you know when you come to one of their shows you're going to have a good time," one girl told me.

You'll always leave here feeling better than when you walk in," another girl told me. "If you're feeling down when you come in, you'll always feel happier when you leave."

The show was wonderful, I had a great time being there, and I would definitely suggest that you check out Who Brought The Dog!

For more information on Who Brought The Dog, you can write to:

Howard would have some great shows, then she'd have to come in and try to follow with her dead voice or dead pan, bored, I never had the boyfriend I really wanted voice,... So she took it out on me. But I don't care.

SO: How much of an inspiration was Lenny Bruce?

SK: Well, you know, he made it possible for me to do what I do, and I'm eternally grateful and I always look in and check on his Mom for him. I think that's the best tribute you can do for the guy rather than go, "Thank you, Lenny,"... Take care of the guy's Mom, she's 83 and she doesn't have anybody. It's my pleasure. I have a lot of fun with her. She's a sweet woman.

SO: Any other inspirations?

SK: Sure, Richard Pryor, Jonathan Winters, Robin Williams, all kinds of people inspire me.

SO: How does your brand of humor tie into rock 'n roll?

SK: I think it's the edge that Rock has always had. I think that's why people identify with it. Five years ago or six years ago, I was the only one going out with a no-holds-barred, balls to the wall, attitude. Now, of course, it's been paved... Now, everybody's going to go out and break the rules. Well f—k, the rules have been broken, man. You know, anybody can get up and do what I do now, it's safe. Where were they six years ago, they were f—ing starving. They were doing impressions like Dice used to do six years ago. It's proven to be safe, yeah sure, everyone's gonna go (mocking Dice Clay voice) "Hickory, Dickory," yeah, nothing's gonna happen to you also.

SO: Sam, are you still a rebel?

SK: Yeah, (laughing) just more organized now

SO: Do people know the real Sam Kinison and if not, do you want people to know?

SK: Actually, they're gonna know about as much as they can. I haven't really been a recluse, I've been pretty much in the audience and the public eye's face. Yeah, that's basically me, especially on Howard (Stern). I mean it's real hard to be funny on Howard, so that's really me, and that's really him. That's why we get along.

SO: Do you think someday when you're gone they'll make a movie of your life, "The Sam Kinison Story?"

SK: God, I hope not!

SO: Just in case they do, who would you want to play the title role?

SK: Kiefer Sutherland.

SO: Last question. Do you ever see yourself settled down, married with five kids in Peoria, Illinois, with a station wagon and white picket fence?

SK: No, unfortunately, 'cause that can be fun too. But I don't think it's ever gonna happen. I'm too jaded. It's like "Charles Manson, you ever think about having a farm in Iowa?" It's a little late; my path has been chosen.

REST IN PEACE SAM.

SAMMY SLOAN'S

In Englewood Cliffs, NJ

All aboard and full steam ahead to Sammy Sloan's—a unique restaurant and bar owned by Greg Schneider and named after Samuel Sloan, president of the Hudson River Railroad and the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad in the latter part of the 1800's.

Sammy Sloan's (formerly The Ground Round) is located on Sylvan Avenue in Englewood Cliffs, New Jersey, easily accessible from Routes 4, 9W, 95 and the Palisades Interstate Parkway. Once inside the gray facade building, you'll find a colorful atmosphere. The usual trappings of sport memorabilia and old-time signs line the walls of both the restaurant and bar. There are 12 TVs and a large screen TV situated around the parameter of the space to keep you up to the minute on the Yankees, Mets, Rangers and Devils. There's also a jukebox, pinball and a Pop-a-Shot basketball game.

Serving both lunch (Englewood Cliffs office delivery available) and dinner, designating daily specials (i.e. prime rib), Sammy Sloan's offers a "railroad" style menu with "expressly" oversized portions.

First Stop: APPETIZERS. Sample the Rio Grande Chicken Strips skewered, marinated and char-grilled; or 'Shroomers—oven-baked mushrooms stuffed with vegetables; Macho Nachos; Buffalo Wings; Mussels; soup, chili, etc.

Second Stop: PASTA. Italian perfection served ala Sloan's . . . Spaghetti, Seafood Pasta, or Pasta Primavera—all with your choice of soup or salad.

Third Stop: SALAD CAR. Crisp greens topped and tossed to please . . . Super Chef Salad with ham, turkey, and swiss cheese; Orient Express Salad with marinated grilled chicken breast, egg noodles, and oriental vegetables; Pasta Salad, and much more.

Fourth Stop: ROTISSERIE CHICKEN. Marinated, roasted one-quarter or one-half chicken served with Mom's mashed potatoes, vegetable and choice of sauce.

Fifth Stop: DINING CAR. Sammy Sloan's offers a wide selection of entrees, including chicken, fish, and steak, flat car sandwiches, and one-half pound caboose burgers.

Final Stop: DESSERTS. Definitely not to be ignored with such savory treats as Cheesecake, Chocolate Truffle Cake, Apple Pie, and more.

On a separate rail, for those 21 and over, there's the bar—fully stocked, shelved with bottles, stacked with glasses. You can order alcoholic and non-alcoholic beverages, cappuccino, and expresso.

Check out Happy Hour's price specials Monday through Friday, 5 to 7 p.m. On Thursday and Friday, Sammy Sloan's features a free buffet and live music (6-10 p.m.) in the bar. On Saturday, catch the best of Jazz, Blues, R&B, Pop, Funk, and Reggae as staged bands perform in the restaurant. Featured April 18: Johnny Youth Band.

Sammy Sloan's has two non-smoking sections, is handicapped accessible, and offers sufficient parking on premises. Dress is casual but neat.

Don't get sidetracked . . . take the express route to Sammy Sloan's, a non-stop stockpile of good food and streamlined entertainment.

(Sammy Sloan's, 150 Sylvan Avenue, Englewood Cliffs, NJ; (201) 567-8555 Hours: Monday through Thursday, 11:30 a.m. to 1 a.m.; Friday, 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 a.m.; Saturday, 3 p.m. to 2:30 a.m.; Sunday, 12 noon to 9 p.m.)

★ Steppin' Out Under The Stars ★
Your Outlook This Week

Weekly Tip: Time to forgive and forget. Love — of mate, of family — can overcome minor indiscretions.

Aries (March 21-April 19) A thoughtful week. You need to regroup and weigh the events of the recent past. Take in a movie.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) All your hard work pays off; the bosses notice and plan to reward you. Wining and dining this weekend.

Gemini (May 21-June 21) A time for introspection and re-evaluation of your goals. Relax and recuperate from all your recent activity.

Cancer (June 22-July 22) A romantic encounter could mark a new beginning for you. Shop for new clothes, and maybe a new hairstyle.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Changes on the home front could be for the better. Overeating won't help, so exercise instead.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Lighten up. Stress and tension are not conducive to problem solving.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Now's the time to either spice up your relationship or call it quits and move on. Either way, you win.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 21) A friendship could become much more, perhaps leading to a change in marital status.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) This week sees you bursting with energy, so channel some of it into sports or physical activity.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're likely to shine this week, whether at work or socially. Invite friends for a weekend get-together.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Enjoy the great outdoors this week and let the sunshine rejuvenate you. Tend to needed repairs.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20) Don't believe everything you hear, but heed the advice of one good friend. Keep a secret you are told.

If You Were Born This Week

Your enthusiasm and energy will see you through. Job changes in May. Tend to your health in July. Take it slow in December, since January may present more job-related changes. Domesticity in February.

MOVIEGUIDE

STRAIGHT TALK

Dolly Parton dishes out homespun advice as a questionable, but popular, Chicago radio psychiatrist. She virtually overwhelms this romantic comedy with her unique, exuberant personality. But the predictable and contrived screenplay, garnished with a half-dozen forgettable Dolly-written songs, follows an uphill, crooked path to an unimpressive conclusion. James Woods is in a minor supporting role as the object of Dolly's affections. (PG)

RUBY

More speculation on the Kennedy assassination, now from events surrounding Jack Ruby, the small-time strip-joint owner who shot Lee Harvey Oswald. Danny Aiello, in the title role, is sporadically convincing. But the film merely trots out another hard-to-prove theory; here it's a murder conspiracy involving the CIA and the Mafia. The story leaves us still guessing. Sherilyn Fenn has an engrossing part as the composite character of a stripper who sometimes resembles Marilyn Monroe. (R)

ROCK-A-DOODLE

From the Don Bluth studio, a confusing animated feature that parodies Elvis Presley in the form of a pompous rooster who quits the barnyard for the big city where he becomes a rock star. Youngsters are apt to become restless trying to decipher the elaborate plot maze that is weighted down with too many vague characters. Glen Campbell is the voice of the singing fowl and his efforts fail to move the film along. Christopher Plummer, Phil Harris and Sandy Duncan also do voice characterizations. (R)

GRODIN AND FRIEND

BEETHOVEN

This perky children's comedy, featuring a loveable but messy St. Bernard dog, should keep tails wagging for most young viewers. The pooch of the title joins a typical middle-class, suburban, family to the delight of Mom and kids. But fastidious Dad (Charles Grodin) goes up the wall in the wake of the slobbering dog's muddy paw prints and other canine problems. Most of the sight gags, along with Dad's constant exasperation, provide a steady stream of fun and laughter. (PG)

RODNEY DANGERFIELD

LADYBUGS

Typical vehicle for rotund, and somewhat over-the-hill, comic Rodney Dangerfield who is found here coaching a girl's soccer team. Give Rodney some respect for a few gags that suit his style of funny business. But most of the shenanigans merely creak along. His "Back to School" outing, hardly a raucous comedy, fared better than this anemic effort. Jackee and Jonathan Brandis are in supporting roles. (PG-13)

WHERE ANGELS FEAR TO TREAD

Mildly amusing, but often pedestrian, adaptation of E.M. Forster's 1905 novel that dwells on his familiar theme of stuffy Englishmen. The starchy characters are primarily situated in freewheeling Italy, a land of contrast to their repressive personalities. Performances by a first-rate cast never compensate for the drab telling that works better in print. With Helena Bonham Carter, Judy Davis and Helen Mirren. (PG)

HARRELSON AND SNIPES

WHITE MEN CAN'T JUMP

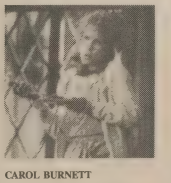
Wesley Snipes and Woody Harrelson (of TV's "Cheers") are an effective acting team as clever basketball hustlers in this lively comedy set in Los Angeles. Here's their ploy: Since Woody is white, he's not expected to do well on the court, but in fact he's a pro. The film rolls merrily along with its colorful dialogue, exhilarating two-on-two basketball matches and its sympathetic examination of the characters' domestic lives. Rosie Perez scores points as Woody's hotsy-totsy girlfriend. (R)

FINAL APPROACH

Splashy digital sound and glitzy computer-animated effects drive this drama about a military pilot (James B. Sikking) who crashes his spy plane and is then mysteriously interrogated by a psychiatrist (Hector Elizondo). The two-character battle of wits explores the dilemma: Is the pilot out of his mind or is he the victim of foreign intrigue? The high-tech wizardry often upstages the screenplay which ends with some confusion. (R)

THE POWER OF ONE

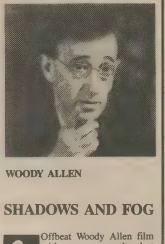
Director John G. Avildsen uses various elements from his "Rocky" and "Karate Kid" movies in this earnest, hand-wringing drama that examines South African apartheid. Such manipulative devices are out of place here. The story revolves around a young English-South African boy who is tormented by racist whites. He, at last, becomes a respected boxer and a hero to the black population. Stephen Dorff portrays the youth in his late teens. Morgan Freeman and John Gielgud are fine in minor roles. (PG)



CAROL BURNETT

NOISES OFF

Only a few funny scenes survive in this disappointing screen version of the British stage comedy. The farce, about a bumbling English theater troupe, is transposed to the United States. And the revised venue fails to work properly in the context of the actors' actual experiences that become entangled with their stage roles. The top cast includes Michael Caine, Carol Burnett, Denholm Elliott and Julie Hagerty. Their excellent talents have scant effect with the unfortunate material. (PG-13)



WOODY ALLEN

SHADOWS AND FOG

Offbeat Woody Allen film with some comedy, but mostly an eerie, dreamlike tale of a meek clerk (Allen) who is awakened from his sleep to help search for a serial strangler. It's as if Ingmar Bergman has adapted Franz Kafka, working from a script co-written by Mel Brooks and Kierkegaard. The large, well-known cast also includes Mia Farrow, Madonna, Jodie Foster, Lily Tomlin and John Malkovich. Effectively filmed in black and white. (PG)
